Bryanite Orators Could Produce Nothing New.

ABUSED THE GOLD STANDARD

General Sherwood Played His Comrade Racket, and Doctor Ikert Sought to Explain That Ways and Means Committee Hearing—A Cheeky Drummer.

If the Democratic leaders expected their last rally of the campaign to be a burning success, there are some disappointed Democratic leaders in the city today.

The usual program was carried out. There were no new or startling features. The drum corps paraded the streets, a thousand or more people gathered at the rink, Mr. Bryan was styled the matchless several times, there were a few cheers, General Sherwood told the story he has been telling since the campaign opened, and the meeting was over. There was another feature, a surprise, but as it was filled with the time worn expressions of the street fakir, and the speaker talked as though he had a particularly useless brand of liver pad for sale, his effort dropped with that dull and sickening thud so frequently found at gatherings of the faithful. He said he was a drummer, and pretended to be intelligent; starting bits of information not lost upon the crowd.

J. J. Weisand announced the vice-presidents, and after a few leading members of the party had taken seats on the platform, John W. Hall appeared as the chairman. To this time there had been little enthusiasm, but Mr. Tracy had appeared while the organization was being perfected, and, according to custom, led the applause throughout the remainder of the meeting. Mr. Hall introduced Doctor Ikert as the first speaker.

Doctor Ikert spent one hour and ten minutes in telling how the party lines had been obliterated in this campaign, and the issues should be discussed calmly and with reason. He referred to Cheops, King of Egypt, and talked of nothing but "unrequited toil," for fully fifteen minutes. Bryan was eulogized as the "matchless, peerless, eloquent and fearless," and for the first time since the doctor began speaking, there was applause. He said he had been requested to refer to several Republican speeches made in the city, and carried several copies of the NEWS REVIEW, which he said had undoubtedly quoted the speakers correctly. His criticisms of Judge King and Judge Lansing fell flat, and the speaker compared himself to John Sherman, which brought forth applause. The question was asked: "Who in this audience have gold in their pockets?" J. N. Baxter promptly yelled: "The people on the other side of the street have the gold." When this point arrived the doctor was of the opinion he must hurry, and started on the address delivered by Fred Walker, of Trenton, in the rink a few weeks ago. He referred to several statements of Mr. Walker as deliberate lies, and told the old story of the investigation by the ways and means committee, and how he had a right to be there answering questions as he did, because he felt perfectly competent to give a Democratic answer to any question Mr. Reed might ask. He said he had been criticised by both parties, but he was not in favor of high protection or free trade. Thomas Jefferson was quoted to surprise the people, but no one seemed surprised, as the majority were able to read. Andrew Jackson came next and consumed some time, the doctor asserting the two great parties of today were practically together on the tariff question. He denied the Wilson bill caused the reduction in the wages of the Liverpool potters, and read the raw materials placed on the free list to substantiate his statements. He told how he spent money to come to this city from Washington for the purpose of settling the strike, but to no avail. He said that with a Democratic president and congress, the men would get their 12½¢ back, but never under Republican rule. The speaker closed by telling how he had been beating charges for several years, and was still in the business.

General I. R. Sherwood in part said: "Chairman, fellow-citizens, and ladies: I am very glad to look into the faces of this intelligent audience. We have with us here on the platform a man who has more inside information than any man in the state of Ohio, Mr. Badger, who represents one of the great commercial houses of New York, and who will cast his first Democratic vote this fall. When you have heard him you will all say he is a second William J. Bryan. I have been talking a great deal of late, and a few evenings since they put me out in the open air, where I had to speak against a crowd of men yelling for McKinley, and as a consequence I am a little hoarse and will only speak for 40 minutes, and then give way to Mr. Badger. I will not discuss the issues of the campaign. John Sherman, the leader of the Republican party, says a re-enactment of the tariff at this time is not practicable, and the Republican platform has not decided in favor of a new tariff bill. I will read a statement made by Mark Hanna to the Chicago Tribune, in which he says it is not proposed to reenact the McKinley bill. Why should fear of a high protective tariff keep sound money Democrats from voting for McKinley, when a statement like this is published? I know McKinley, and his cohorts know he is a defeated man. When I started to run for congress many people said I was defeated; but I have every confidence in the good sense of the voters of the district, and know that I will be elected. As I came down from my residence in Canton to the train I passed the major's house, where so many great essays have been read this fall. As I went by there was an air of depression about the place, and I could hear the sad moaning of the October wind through the trees, I said to myself, why, even defeat is in the air.

"These yellow badges remind me of the signs they used at the small-pox hospitals down south. As those badges were indicative of disease, so are the badges of today indicative of the disease in the body politic caused by the gold standard. Those yellow badges always make me think of yellow jaundice. I want to call attention to the fact that all the great labor leaders of the country are for Bryan, and I will read to you a portion of a circular signed by them in which they endorse him and remonstrate against the gold standard. I venture to say in Canton we have the best organized labor unions in the country, and not one of them has endorsed Major McKinley, while on the other hand, without any solicitation on my part, every union of the city has declared in favor of my election. There is a greater question than silver in this campaign, and that is the enormous national debt. Shall we pay the debt in our own product, (cries of yes) or shall we pay it in products of Great Britain? [Jimmy Tracy, never.] I want to leave you one proposition to sleep and pray over. Our bonded indebtedness is now $235,000,000, and how are you going to pay it under a gold standard? When the entire product of all our mines is only $45,000,000, how are you going to retain the gold standard, with no gold? No party ever before declared for a single gold standard. We have witnessed three of the most disastrous years in the history of the country, and the product of labor has depreciated 17 per cent. Extreme poverty is the parent of crime. Murders, insanity and suicide increased last year because of business failures. Today there are 3,000,000 men looking for work, and 137 trusts sucking the life blood out of the country; two-thirds of all the property in this country is owned by millionaires and multi-millionaires. This is the most disgraceful, corrupt and debauching campaign in American history, with trusts on one side and tramps on the other.

"I understand you had a few representatives of a government by injunction. I refer to those distinguished generals who were here to defeat an old soldier. They are so permeated with love of country that they want to elect a civilian to congress in place of an old soldier. General Sickles lost a leg in the war, but since then he has been an attorney for corporations with tips from Wall street, until today he is worth $3,500,000. General Howard is a man, according to his own statement, who never voted for a president. He gets a pension of $5,600 a year. General Alger is so corrupt that John Sherman told him he would expose him, and for that reason Harrison was afraid to appoint him to a cabinet position. Corporal Tanner is in the aggregation; but don't sympathize with them. He is only with them for rich vintage, and whether General Sickles divides much with him I don't know; but from his appearance sometimes I should judge not.

"Mexico is the most prosperous country this side of the Atlantic. There is not a railroad in that country in the hands of a receiver. Yet the Republicans claim under a free silver basis we would have too much money. Are any of you afraid of having too much money? [Tracy—No.] The Republican party has degraded human labor until today it is nothing more than a serf, a pauper and a degradation. Many a laboring man is wearing a yellow badge, when under that badge throbs a heart for humanity and our cause."

When he was ready to close Tracy wanted to know about arbitration, and the speaker said: "I am in favor of arbi-

TORE DOWN THE FLAG

An East End Man Stamped on the National Emblem.

HE IS A LEADING BRYANITE

Great Indignation Occasioned by an Un-called-For Action This Morning—The Kind of Patriotism One Democrat Owns. He Will Be Punished.

An East End man this morning tore down an American flag, and with his features distorted by anger and hate, trampled the beautiful emblem of liberty in the dirt of the street.

The action is vouched for by leading residents of that portion of the city. The man in question is a Bryanite, a leader so prominent that he sat last night on the platform in the Fifth street rink, and applauded, with others the sentiment of the speakers. This, as every one knows, is Flag Day, and the Bryan-

WORKINGMEN OF EAST LIVERPOOL, HERE IS BRYAN'S RECORD.

In the Ways and Means Committee, in Washington, D. C., Bryan termed the glassworkers of our country

PUBLIC BEGGARS.
This is the truth, as it occurred, and is sworn to by a leading member of the Glassworkers' Union.

POTTERY WORKERS.
William Jennings Bryan, in conversation with a committee of your own workmen, one of the number a resident of East Liverpool, advocated the idea that skilled pottery workers should work at the same wages as those paid to a day laborer.

MECHANICS
of East Liverpool, workmen in every line: professional men, merchants and business men; in fact, all men who love this land of the free. Wm. Jennings Bryan advocates a financial policy which will bring the United States to ruin, destroy her industries and place upon a par with such countries as Spain, Mexico and countries of a kindred character, unfit to mention in the same breath with the glorious country over which Old Glory now floats to the breeze.

of East Liverpool, awake to your full duty. Be true to your country, your flag, your honor. Hurl defiance in the face of him who would dishonor this great nation and cause a panic and a curse to enfold us in their hideous embrace.

ites declared they would observe the occasion with the Republicans. East End, always patriotic, was filled with flags at an early hour. Everywhere the stars and stripes could be seen, and some people, thinking it should be made unanimous, tacked a flag to the business place of this Bryanite. He saw it, and with his boasted patriotism, fumed and swore. At length his anger took possession of him, and he tore the flag from its fastenings, and throwing it down, stamped upon it.

Great indignation was expressed on every side when the action became known, and for a time it seemed as though the fellow would be punished without the formality of a judge and jury. Better council prevailed, and after a time the people decided to use other measures.

There should be a punishment for those creatures who deliberately tear down and trample under foot the American flag. If he is not to be dealt with as a traitor in a legal way, he should be ostracized by the good people who love this country and honor the flag for what it represents. There is little doubt that East End will avenge that insult to the Stars and Stripes before many years go by.

IT COMES FROM CANTON.

A Warning to Old Soldiers of This Place.

A leading Grand Army man of Canton, in a letter to a friend and comrade in this city, writes:

"I hear the Popocratic candidate for congress in this district is working the 'comrade' racket, while he is not a comrade in anything but name. Here at Canton he did not hesitate to vilify comrades, and that without cause. He is circulating a list of comrades who he alleges are going to support him. Of these at least fifteen were men who say they are not going to support him, and their names were used without their consent. Among the others there are men whose army record is not clear. When you consider that we have over 800 ex-soldiers in Canton city and township, and nearly 600 in ex-soldier organizations, you can judge how much and what kind of a soldier following he has here. I hope he will not be able to impose his comrade racket on any of our comrades over at your place."

The letter came from one of the best known Grand Army men of the state, and was passed around among members of the organization here last night and today. The above is but a part of what it contains, and the impression created was that the candidate would have few votes in East Liverpool.

NOT A GENIAL MAN

Is This Bryanite Candidate For Mr. Taylor's Seat.

His was a tall, well dressed, imposing appearance as he stood by Doctor Ikert's tin soldier, and with wrinkled brow and dignified mien read the inscriptions on the monument. Another figure approached, an old soldier, gallant and tried.

"What regiment?" asked the new comer, as he saw the Grand Army button in the coat of the stranger.

"The One Hundred and Eleventh Ohio and two others" was the response.

"Am I speaking to Comrade Sherwood?"

"You are," came with dignity from the stately figure.

"Well, I just want to say, comrade, that I'm glad to know you, but I'm forminst you this time." The stately figure rose to a greater height, an angry glow flashed from those cold gray eyes, and the stranger walked away, while the soldier muttered under his breath: "Gol darn a comrade who won't take a joke."

SHERWOOD.

A Nice Kind of a Man to Appeal to Workmen.

Isaac R. Sherwood, who calls himself a "general," but who was but a "major" in the army, if he was in the army, spoke at the rink last night, and said: "Mexico is the most prosperous nation this side of the Atlantic."

What did this man Sherwood mean by prosperity? Mexico is a living curse to the mechanic and laboring man. Think of it, oh, ye toilers. In Mexico a mechanic or skilled workman receives 60 cents a day, and a laborer 35 cents per day, and this in Mexican money, which is worth 50 cents on the dollar in United States money.

And this man Sherwood wants our skilled labor to work at such wages. He is a nice advocate of workingmen. Nit!

SURE OF KENTUCKY.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr Thinks the Republicans Will Win.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr arrived in the city today at noon, and was reading a newspaper at the Thompson House when a NEWS REVIEW man asked him how Kentucky would vote.

"I have been in Kentucky since leaving your town, and found a great deal of McKinley sentiment. I believe the state will be Republican by no less than 15,000. The abuse heaped upon Mr. Carlisle in Covington will make many Democrats vote for McKinley."

Mr. Horr goes from here to New Jersey, and speaks in Plainfield, his home, the night before election.

JOHN MILLER OBJECTED

But Constable Bertele Showed Him His Error.

A BRIEF BUT LIVELY BATTLE

Which the Officer Ended By Striking Miller With His Mace—The Man Had Been Annoying the Neighborhood for Several Hours.

Constable Bertele arrested John Miller this morning, but not until the shanty boat colony had been thoroughly aroused by a lively row.

Miller lives in a boat, and has been catching fish for David Boyd. Last night he had some trouble with his employer, and instead of keeping his affairs to himself inflicted them upon the neighborhood. He had not recovered this morning, and soon had all the people within sound of his voice aroused. So annoying did he become that a message was sent to the fire station, and Constable Bertele hastened to the scene. He informed Miller he was under arrest, but Miller protested. He wanted a warrant, and declared he would not go without that authority. The constable insisted, and Miller resisted. The men scuffled and fought for several minutes, and Miller put his hand in his hip pocket. Thinking he had a revolver, Tony drew his mace, and striking Miller a sharp blow on the wrist, soon convinced him he should go to city hall at once. The affair caused considerable excitement in the lower part of the city.

An officer came from New Castle yesterday evening and returned with Samuel Valentine, who was in jail here charged with appropriating property belonging to some other party.

THE CITY LOOKS PRETTY.

Flags and Streamers on Hundreds of Buildings.

Never before did East Liverpool present such a pretty appearance, never were there so many flags floating from so many buildings.

Flag Day is being universally observed. The best buildings and the most humble homes are trimmed out in the national colors, and flags fly from hundreds of windows and poles. The potteries began decorating at an early hour, and business houses wore the beautiful colors long before noon. Private residences in all parts of the city were profusely decorated, and from East End to Jethro the town was ablaze with red, white and blue. Peeping from the folds of bunting, and displayed wherever they could be seen were portraits of McKinley, while thousands of his admirers wore tiny flags on some conspicuous part of their raiment. East Liverpool observed Flag Day, and observed it in a manner reflecting credit upon the patriotic feeling of its people.

The Trade In Pottery Pleases All Concerned This Fall.

Editorially, China, Glass and Lamps refers in this way to the pottery trade: "The pottery trade is reported good all along the line, and a large holiday demand has been made for new porcelain shapes and new decorations gotten out during the summer and early fall by manufacturing potters. A large trade is reported by salesmen in small goods, odds and ends, cups and saucers, decorated novelties, toilet articles, boudoir decorations, vases and small receptacles. In fine dinner ware, jardiniere and full toilets, from medium to high grade decorations, trade is very encouraging, and at present it looks as though the trade this fall would exceed that of any year since 1892. More power to it. And the coon will make his jump all right, dead sure."

IT COMES FROM CANTON.

A Warning to Old Soldiers of This Place.

A leading Grand Army man of Canton, in a letter to a friend and comrade in this city, writes:

"I hear the Popocratic candidate for congress in this district is working the 'comrade' racket, while he is not a comrade in anything but name. Here at Canton he did not hesitate to vilify comrades, and that without cause. He is circulating a list of comrades who he alleges are going to support him. Of these at least fifteen were men who say they are not going to support him, and their names were used without their consent. Among the others there are men whose army record is not clear. When you consider that we have over 800 ex-soldiers in Canton city and township, and nearly 600 in ex-soldier organizations, you can judge how much and what kind of a soldier following he has here. I hope he will not be able to impose his comrade racket on any of our comrades over at your place."

The letter came from one of the best known Grand Army men of the state, and was passed around among members of the organization here last night and today. The above is but a part of what it contains, and the impression created was that the candidate would have few votes in East Liverpool.

NOT A GENIAL MAN

Is This Bryanite Candidate For Mr. Taylor's Seat.

His was a tall, well dressed, imposing appearance as he stood by Doctor Ikert's tin soldier, and with wrinkled brow and dignified mean read the inscriptions on the monument. Another figure approached, an old soldier, gallant and tried.

"What regiment?" asked the new comer, as he saw the Grand Army button in the coat of the stranger.

"The One Hundred and Eleventh Ohio and two others" was the response.

"Am I speaking to Comrade Sherwood?"

"You are," came with dignity from the stately figure.

"Well, I just want to say, comrade, that I'm glad to know you, but I'm for you this time." The stately figure rose to a greater height, an angry glow flashed from those cold gray eyes, and the stranger walked away, while the soldier muttered under his breath "G'd darn a comrade who won't take a joke."

SHERWOOD.

A Nice Kind of a Man to Appeal to Workmen.

Isaac R. Sherwood, who calls himself a "general," but who was but a "major" in the army, if he was in the army, spoke at the rink last night, and said:

"Mexico is the most prosperous nation this side of the Atlantic."

What did this man Sherwood mean by prosperity? Mexico is a living curse to the mechanic and laboring man. Think of it, oh, ye toilers. In Mexico a mechanic or skilled workman receives 60 cents a day, and a laborer 35 cents per day, and this in Mexican money, which is worth 50 cents on the dollar in United States money.

And this man Sherwood wants our skilled labor to work at such wages. He is a nice advocate of workmen. Nit!

SURE OF KENTUCKY.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr thinks the Republicans Will Win.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr arrived in the city today at noon, and was reading a newspaper at the Thompson House when a NEWS REVIEW man asked him how Kentucky would vote.

"I have been in Kentucky since leaving your town, and found a great deal of McKinley sentiment. I believe the state will be Republican by no less than 15,000. The abuse heaped upon Mr. Carlisle in Covington will make many Democrats vote for McKinley."

Mr. Horr goes from here to New Jersey, and speaks in Plainfield, his home, the night before election.

JOHN MILLER OBJECTED

But Constable Bertele Showed Him His Error.

A BRIEF BUT LIVELY BATTLE

Which the Officer Ended By Striking Miller With His Mace—The Man Had Been Annoying the Neighborhood for Several Hours.

Constable Bertele arrested John Miller this morning, but not until the shanty boat colony had been thoroughly aroused by a lively row.

Miller lives in a boat, and has been catching fish for David Boyd. Last night he had some trouble with his employer, and instead of keeping his affairs to himself inflicted them upon the neighborhood. He had not recovered this morning, and soon had all the people within sound of his voice aroused. So annoying did he become that a message was sent to the fire station, and Constable Bertele hastened to the scene. He informed Miller he was under arrest, but Miller protested. He wanted a warrant, and declared he would not go without that authority. The constable insisted, and Miller resisted. The men scuffled and fought for several minutes, and Miller put his hand in his hip pocket. Thinking he had a revolver, Tony drew his mace, and striking Miller a sharp blow on the wrist, soon convinced him he should go to city hall at once. The affair caused considerable excitement in the lower part of the city.

An officer came from New Castle yesterday evening and returned with Samuel Valentine, who was in jail here charged with appropriating property belonging to some other party.

THE CITY LOOKS PRETTY.

Flags and Streamers on Hundreds of Buildings.

Never before did East Liverpool present such a pretty appearance, never were there so many flags floating from so many buildings.

Flag Day is being universally observed. The best buildings and the most humble homes are trimmed out in the national colors, and flags fly from hundreds of windows and poles. The potteries began decorating at an early hour, and business houses wore the beautiful colors long before noon. Private residences in all parts of the city were profusely decorated, and from East End to Jethro the town was ablaze with red, white and blue. Peeping from the folds of bunting, and displayed wherever they could be seen were portraits of McKinley, while thousands of his admirers wore tiny flags on some conspicuous part of their raiment. East Liverpool observed Flag Day, and observed it in a manner reflecting credit upon the patriotic feeling of its people.

BEST IN FOUR YEARS.

The Trade in Pottery Pleases All Concerned This Fall.

Editorially, China, Glass and Lamps refers in this way to the pottery trade: "The pottery trade is reported good all along the line, and a large holiday demand has been made for new porcelain shapes and new decorations gotten out during the summer and early fall by manufacturing potters. A large trade is reported by salesmen in small goods, odds and ends, cups and saucers, decorated novelties, toilet articles, boudoir decorations, vases and small receptacles. In fine dinner ware, jardiniere and full toilets, from medium to high grade decorations, trade is very encouraging, and at present it looks as though the trade this fall would exceed that of any year since 1892. More power to it. And the coon will make his jump all right, dead sure."

THE NEWS REVIEW was the first paper in the United States to place McKinley's name at the head of its columns, has kept it there ever since, and will continue to do so until the Great Republican leader is elected President.

A MAGNIFICENT audience will hear Roswell G. Horr at the rink this evening. If you want a seat, go early.

CHAIRMAN JONES' coercion and fraud with as much noise as though he really believed some little of what he said.

THE Democratic donkey must yield to the Republican elephant. The people are saying so from Maine to California, and the people always rule in this country.

ANARCHY and anarchists are not wanted in free America. Chicago, where the people know the power of well dressed enemies of the law, has promised to rebuke the anarchists next Tuesday.

A WITTY Irishman was once asked by a stranger, "What do you do for a living?" and replied "Me wife takes in washin'." It is possible Mr. Bryan, on the same line, will be telling his friends after election "My wife practices law."

A STARRY field and a few stripes of red and white may not mean a great deal to some men, but to the vast majority of people in this country that combination stands for all they hold dear. To them it is the safety of home and country, and insult to the flag means insult to the people it protects. There has been far too much disrespect to the flag in this campaign.

IT MEANS BUSINESS.

Every man who has a vote should consider well before he goes to the polls next Tuesday. He owes it as a duty to himself and his family to think of the benefit to be derived from the course he will pursue, and the dangers which will come if he votes for the wrong principle. It is a responsibility which no man should shirk; a work which he should gladly perform. And there is but one side if he would be right. He must vote for those principles which not only embody patriotism, but the enforcement of which will result in the greatest good for the people as a whole. He is free to decide for himself; but that is no reason why he should allow his eyes to wander after the glitter of false promise until he falls into the pit his enemies have made. Because he can, is no excuse for him hearing the words of the demagogue, and voting as some other man would have him vote. He should follow the lead of his own good sense, marshal issue against issue, and decide to vote for McKinley, patriotism, protection and prosperity.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Business Still Being Delayed by Politics.

TIGHT MONEY MARKET A FEATURE.

Wheat Declined Sharply, But Is Rising Again—Speculation in Wool Continues. Iron Being Bought Largely by Speculators—Business Failures For the Week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says: A market without anything but politics to rule it is not often seen. Business is almost abolished until after the election, by the extraordinary pressure for money, by the indisposition of anybody to sell who thinks a great change for the better is near, by the feeling that it is now of no use to contract or buy when so little time remains before a decision and by the general absorption of business men in political activities.

The feature of the week has been the pressure in the New York money market in spite of the heavy arrivals of gold. Quotations of call loans at 100 per cent or more have no real meaning, except that, with practically four holidays to come in succession, there is really no market.

Wheat has declined sharply, but is rising again, closing about 1/2c lower for the week. Heavy realizing of the spot sales, extreme monetary pressure in carrying supplies, and belief of foreigners that they can get what they want at lower prices by present abstention, have materially helped the powerful Chicago influence, which has labored to depress prices. But the evidence of great demand abroad grows clearer and while western receipts are heavy, 7,562,927 bushels for the week, and 31,150,964 bushels last year, the enormous milling returns are of especial value, showing that foreign orders are preparing a great quantity of flour for export. These returns, not heretofore given elsewhere, will be especially instructive whenever the market turns on the foreign demand. Atlantic exports for four weeks, flour included, have been 8,026,555 bushels, against 6,255,412 last year. Higher prices and actual famine in parts of India have a speculative bearing, but are really less important to the American market than the news of the decreasing supplies from Russia.

The speculation in wool continues and has taken, during the past four weeks, 28,321,100 pounds, against 29,788,550 pounds last year, and 26,588,053 pounds in 1892, although less than half the capacity of the mills is employed. It is a gratifying feature, however, that about 12 establishments have started during the week, in confidence that business will be larger hereafter. There is as yet only a slight improvement in the demand for lightweight wools.

Iron has been bought largely by speculators, 23,000 tons of Bessemer at Pittsburgh raising the price to $11.00, large quantities of Grey Forge raising the price to $10.40 and 20,000 tons, nearly all of northern iron, at Chicago. Finished products do not change in quoted prices, although quotations are less shaded than of late to secure business and there is strong belief that after a week there will be a marked change.

The known orders deferred until after election would by themselves suffice to employ the works for a considerable time.

Failures for the week have been 270 in the United States, against 278 last year, and 40 in Canada, against 53 last year.

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN WHEAT.

After Frequent Fluctuations It Closed a Little Higher.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Wheat closed at an advance of 1 cent, at 73c, after a session marked by the frequency and wideness of its fluctuations. Perhaps the chief reason for the advance was the easier tone of the money market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Wheat scored a 2-cent advance under rather adverse circumstances. The bull side was hampered by lower cables, mixed foreign trade and heavy strong wheat receipts. In the face of this, supported by easier money, prices were carried up to 80 1/2-15c for December and after a final slight set back, rested at 79 3/4c.

Sues Austin Corbin's Estate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Miss Mathilde Nelson has begun suit for the recovery of $50,000 from the estate of the late Austin Corbin. Miss Nelson, who is a handsome Swede of about 30 years, alleges that Corbin was a frequent visitor at her apartments, and not long before his death told her that he had invested $50,000 for her, which would be a provision for her in old age.

A Note of Warning.

A number of the remedies commonly used for throat trouble have but little merit. The indiscriminate and careless use of some of them is attended with positive danger.

As a prominent example, Chlorate of Potash probably does a great deal more harm than good. Many people, while suffering from sore throat and like troubles, carry crystals or tablets of Chlorate of Potash in their pockets, and eat them almost like candy. Chlorate of Potash has a decided direct action on the kidneys and its unwise use in frequent and large doses irritates these organs and leads to really serious results, especially so in children.

Some may think this is sounding a false and needless alarm but as a single proof we wish to state that we have before us the November, 1894, copy of the Indiana Medical Journal, wherein are reported two deaths clearly due directly to this habit of using Chlorate of Potash with no regard to its powerful properties.

BRYAN IN WISCONSIN.

Spoke to Big Crowd—Disturbance at Madison.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 31.—W. J. Bryan's speeches in Wisconsin were made at Green Bay, Deperre, Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Chester, Juneau, Watertown, Jefferson, Fort Atkinson, Janesville, Evansville and Madison.

None of them was of more than 30 minutes duration, except the addresses which were made at night at Madison.

All except the Madison speech were made from the rear platform of his special car. This arrangement proved of immense benefit to Mr. Bryan physically, saving him the wear and tear of making his way back and forth through immense crowds of people, eager to press close to him and also in saving time. From almost the beginning of the day's tour the train ran ahead of time, bringing Mr. Bryan into Madison in time to begin his speech in advance of the hour scheduled for his appearance.

There was no semblance of disturbance at any place until Janesville was reached, though it was apparent from the display of yellow badges in many places that his audiences were not entirely in sympathy with him. Still there was respectful attention even on the part of those who wore the colors of the opposition and the silver men were at all places demonstrative.

MONEY GETS EASIER.

Bankers Put Out Enough to Accommodate Legitimate Borrowers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The prevailing monetary conditions were again the dominating influence in the stock market. The rank and file of the traders, figuring upon even more stringent rates for call than had ruled the day before, were prepared to see a decline in stocks. The actual movement, however, was aggressively strong, the course of prices being governed by the early intelligence received by powerful speculative interests that a combined effort should be made by the banks to prevent rates rising to a point likely to precipitate disaster.

London prices for American securities came higher, and to this favorable development were soon added the inspiring semi-official news that a number of the leading banks and trust companies had pooled their surplus reserve resources, variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, and would put out as much money as might be needed by legitimate borrowers, though at rates not low enough to encourage hoarding. The extreme fluctuations in call funds ranged from 60 per cent soon after the opening to 6 per cent at the close. In addition, the bank syndicate or pool loaned money for three days' transactions at 100 per cent, equal to 36 per cent.

THE KUCHENG RIOTS.

Final and Complete Reports Received by the State Department.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The state department has just received the final report of the commission appointed to investigate the Kucheng riots in China last spring and to secure the punishment of the perpetrators of the outrage on American missionaries. The report is a very voluminous document fully illustrated by photographs showing the ruins of the destroyed property, the transport of the convicted criminals to the place of execution in bamboo cages; the actual beheading with startling exactness and the display of the heads of the executed Chinese from trees near the place of their crime as a warning to the inhabitants against further assaults upon foreigners.

While the report is of value as a faithful reflex of the conditions leading up to the missionary outbreaks, it has been anticipated by the department and Secretary Olney, by instructions to United States representatives in China, has laid down the doctrine of practiced successfully in the case of the punishment of the Kucheng rioters, that hereafter they are to insist upon holding the local Chinese officials to account and personal responsibility for outrages upon Americans.

DROVE INVADERS BACK.

Palmer and Buckner Had to Retreat in Missouri.

General Buckner's Face Nearly Decorated by a Punch From a Flagpole at Fayette—The Man Who Saved Him Now Wishes He Hadn't.

PARIS, Mo., Oct. 31.—Generals Palmer and Buckner on their arrival here on their trip through Missouri were met at the depot by 500 people. It proved an unwelcome greeting they received and the party was compelled to pull out without accomplishing anything. As the candidates stood on the rear platform with their heads bared, a number of young men pushed up with a big Bryan banner and shoved it under the noses of the generals. Several efforts of General Buckner to speak were interrupted by cries of derision, many in the crowd yelling:

"Look at the McKinley aid society." Stung at this last fling General Buckner pointed at the banner and said:

"Get me tell you who and what constituted the McKinley Aid society. In 1892, on a sound money platform, we elected Grover Cleveland, but the last elections in Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio were disastrous, because you, you shouters with your heresies, drove the party on to failure and contempt. Hold up the banner. There is the emblem of the McKinley Aid society. Look at it."

The train had to pull out to get away from the banner carriers. Many in the crowd expressed regret at the occurrence.

At Fayette Generals Palmer and Buckner received even worse treatment than at Paris and for a time violence was threatened the candidates. The party was greeted by a howling mob, which seemed bent on causing trouble from the moment the train stopped. No sooner had the two generals emerged upon the car platform than a Bryan banner, bearing the inscription "Fayette Democratic club," was thrust into General Palmer's face by its bearer. A citizen named Williams tried to urge peace and the gold men rallied and rushed the Bryan banner back. This only made the disturbers more ugly. A man tried to punch General Buckner with a flag pole and Williams seized it and the crowd rushed upon him and began beating him.

The men seized Williams and while one garroted him another twisted his beard and a third tried to gouge out his eyes, while others held his legs and arms.

The rioters then tried to get at the generals and strike them with their banners. Scores of men fought bitterly around the car and women were pushed about and knocked down and many blows were exchanged. An old farmer climbed onto the rear end of the car and shouted: "You are carrying Missouri for McKinley."

He was pulled down by the crowd. After five minutes of fighting, screaming and tooting of horns the train pulled out without the candidates even attempting to make a speech. The Central college boys tried to fight the crowd back. Most of the rioters were young men and belonged to the so-called Fayette Democratic club. They wore high white hats with Bryan's name inscribed thereon and white badges. Most of them seemed to belong to the well-to-do element.

Women stood in the station while this riot was going on and wept.

Mrs. Palmer and Buckner, who are accompanying the candidates, were witnesses to the scenes of disorder. About the train the party showed the utmost surprise at the treatment accorded: Said General Buckner:

"All through Iowa we were treated with the greatest courtesy. I did not believe we would be shown such disrespect in Missouri."

The men who stood on the rear platform of the car at Fayette were Pope Yeamans of Columbia, who was between General Palmer and General Buckner. Major Lewis of the General's headquarters, T. B. Buckner of Kansas City, Thomas B. Skinner and Arthur Lee of St. Louis, Rufus Anderson of Hannibal and J. W. Richards of Chicago, who was in charge of the train.

At other points the party was greeted by respectful crowds, and the remainder of the trip to Kansas City was made without incident.

PROVOKED BY THE GENERALS

Democrats of Paris and Fayette, Mo., Give Their Side.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—The Times (Dem.) this morning prints specials from Paris and Fayette, Mo., which state that Generals Palmer and Buckner provoked and were in a large measure responsible for the disorder at those places. The dispatch from Paris says:

When Colonel Rufus S. Anderson of Hannibal came out upon the rear platform of the car to introduce Generals Palmer and Buckner his appearance was the signal for a wild Bryan demonstration from a crowd of Democrats, who were bearing a huge Bryan banner.

When the shouting had somewhat subsided General Palmer said: "I am glad to meet you all, with a few exceptions."

This thrust provoked a still greater demonstration by the Bryan crowd, which brought their banner closer. Then pointing toward a man carrying the banner, General Palmer said: "I see a sappy fool over there with a Bryan picture. Why does not he come out from behind the picture so we can see who he is. I have observed all through this campaign that the men who say they are for Bryan have to go labeled with their candidates' names so they will not forget which they are for."

This tally provoked a Bryan demonstration that overwhelmed the speaker and Gen. Palmer retired in anger.

General Buckner then appeared and there was another tremendous shout for Bryan. As soon as the southerner could be heard he came back at them with the following retort: "You can hold your tongue for Bryan, but not one of you can give a sensible reason why you are going to vote for him."

MAYBE THE MAN WHO IS SCREECHING BRYAN'S NAME OUT THERE CAN COUNT AS MUCH AS 100 WITHOUT MAKING A MISTAKE, BUT I DOUBT IT. I ALSO DOUBT THAT HE KNOWS THE ALPHABET, AND I AM CERTAIN HE CAN'T SAY IT BACKWARDS. THE GOBBLE OF A FOOL IS UTTERLY INCOMPREHENSIBLE TO ME, AND THEREFORE I'LL PAY NO FURTHER ATTENTION TO WHAT HE MAY SAY."

At this juncture someone shouted "Hurrah for the McKinley Aid society."

"I am glad some fool has said that," retorted General Buckner, but the crowd surging around the car had by this time become so uproarious that the speaker was obliged to wait a long time before he could proceed, and, though he spoke only a few words afterward, his speech could be heard by only a few of the assembled crowd.

When the train left Paris the Bryan men at that point who were aggrieved at the language used by the candidates telegraphed ahead to Fayette, and these telegrams, according to The Times's Fayette correspondent, stirred up the Fayette Democracy.

BRYAN INTERRUPTED.

A Skirmish Between Democrats and Republicans at Janesville, Wis.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Oct. 31.—Almost a riot marked W. J. Bryan's trip in Wisconsin.

The day was without special incident until Janesville was reached, when there was a disturbance, which at one time looked as if it might become serious. This point was reached about dusk and there had congregated about the station a large assembly of people. There was an almost complete absence of the gold badges. He had scarcely begun speaking, however, when a procession crossed the railroad tracks in the rear of the audience. It soon developed that the procession was composed of a uniformed McKinley club, carrying banners, mottoes and pictures of the Republican candidates and a large American flag.

Immediately after crossing the railroad the procession turned abruptly into the crowd as if intending to come directly to the platform. There was a disturbance of two or three minutes' duration, which caused such confusion as to put a stop to the speech. The mottoes and banners were made the objects of contention, and a scuffle ensued over their possession. These gradually went down, with the exception of the portrait of McKinley and the American flag, which there was apparently no effort to displace. It was asserted that in the general scuffle there was some resort to physical violence, but it was impossible, from the train, to observe all the details of the encounter. The McKinley procession gradually withdrew and order was very soon restored.

KAISER COMMITTED TO JAIL.

A Belief That He Killed His Wife For Insurance.

NORRISTOWN, Oct. 31.—Charles O. Kaiser, Jr., has been committed to jail without bail. The detectives have a signed statement from him, but refuse to divulge the contents. The developments strengthen the belief of the authorities that an insurance swindle, with Mrs. Kaiser's life as the forfeit, had been contemplated and that a strange man and woman were conspirators with Kaiser. It has been learned that five policies had been issued to Kaiser and his wife. Eighty-four dollars is the aggregate amount of premiums thus far paid out. On two of the $54 would have become due next month.

Another strange fact has come to light. Two months ago the couple made a joint will, under an arrangement similar to that in the policies, but there was a clause inserted at Kaiser's suggestion, it is said, to the effect that their bodies should be cremated. The police intimate that Kaiser had intended to profit by this arrangement by the use of great deception, but that his eminary embarrassment coming upon him, he used the medium of lead and concocted the highwayman story.

OPPOSED LAROR.

Mr. Bryan Called the American Workmen Heggars.

In response to a query regarding the labor record of the Democratic candidate, William J. Bryan, James Campbell, chief factory inspector and an ex-president of the Window Glass Workers of Pennsylvania, writes from Harrisburg that Bryan opposed measures intended to benefit workmen. Mr. Campbell was a member of the committee that went to Washington in 1893 to urge the ways and means committee to protect labor by putting a tariff on glass. Mr. Campbell was present when Mr. Bryan called workmen "public beggars" and their employers "robbers."

He says: "Mr. Bryan made that statement. I have made affidavit to the same, and am willing to make affidavit in any court in this country in the presence of Mr. Bryan or anybody else. The fact of a man holding the honorable position of a congressman making such a statement made such an impression on me at that time that it would be impossible to forget the incident."

"On page 2129, Congressional Record, March 10, 1892, you will find in Mr. Bryan's speech the following statement: 'The difference between a protective tariff and a bounty is simply a difference of form. In the one case it is open and visible, and in the other it is secret and hidden. There is a difference between the bounty and the pestilence that walketh in darkness. It is the difference between a man that meets you on the highway, knocks you down and takes what you have, and the man who steals in the house at night while you are asleep and robs you of your treasures, and if I had to make a choice between the two I should consider the highway robber more honorable, because he does what he does openly and before the world.'"

"There is no question as to Mr. Bryan's position in relation to a protective tariff. He is in favor of absolute free trade, pure and simple, and is in favor of internal taxes sufficient to run the affairs of the government."

FOR MCKINLEY.

The NEWS REVIEW was the first paper in the United States to place McKinley's name at the head of its columns, has kept it there ever since, and will continue to do so until the Great Republican leader is elected President.

A MAGNIFICENT audience will hear Roswell G. Horr at the rink this evening. If you want a seat, go early.

CHAIRMAN JONES cries coercion and fraud with as much noise as though he really believed some little of what he said.

The Democratic donkey must yield to the Republican elephant. The people are saying so from Maine to California, and the people always rule in this country.

ANARCHY and anarchists are not wanted in free America. Chicago, where the people know the power of well dressed enemies of the law, has promised to rebuke the anarchists next Tuesday.

A WITTY Irishman was once asked by a stranger, "What do you do for a living?" and replied "Me wife takes in washin." Is it possible Mr. Bryan, on the same line, will be telling his friends after election "My wife practices law."

A STARKY field and a few stripes of red and white may not mean a great deal to some men, but to the vast majority of people in this country that combination stands for all they hold dear. To them it is the safety of home and country, and insult to the flag means insult to the people it protects. There has been far too much disrespect to the flag in this campaign.

IT MEANS BUSINESS.

Every man who has a vote should consider well before he goes to the polls next Tuesday. He owes it as a duty to himself and his family to think of the benefit to be derived from the course he will pursue, and the dangers which will come if he votes for the wrong principle. It is a responsibility which no man should shirk; a work which he should gladly perform. And there is but one side if he would be right. He must vote for those principles which not only embody patriotism, but the enforcement of which will result in the greatest good for the people as a whole. He is free to decide for himself; but that is no reason why he should allow his eyes to wander after the glitter of false promise until he falls into the pit his enemies have made. Because he can, is no excuse for him hearing the words of the demagogue, and voting as some other man would have him vote. He should follow the lead of his own good sense, marshal issue against issue, and decide to vote for McKinley, patriotism, protection and prosperity.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Business Still Being Delayed by Politics.

TIGHT MONEY MARKET A FEATURE.

Wheat Declined Sharply, But Is Rising Again—Speculation In Wool Continues. Iron Being Bought Largely by Speculators—Business Failures For the Week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says: A market without anything but politics to rule it is not often seen. Business is almost abolished until after the election, by the extraordinary pressure for money, by the indisposition of anybody to sell who thinks a great change for the better is near, by the feeling that it is now of no use to contract or buy when so little time remains before a decision and by the general absorption of business men in political activities.

The feature of the week has been the pressure in the New York money market in spite of the heavy arrivals of gold. Quotations of call loans at 100 per cent or more have no real meaning, except that, with practically four holidays to come in succession, there is really no market.

Wheat has declined sharply, but is rising again, closing about $\frac{1}{8}$ ¢ lower for the week. Heavy realizing of the spot sales, extreme monetary pressure in carrying supplies, and belief of foreigners that they can get what they want at lower prices by present abstention, have materially helped the powerful Chicago influence, which has labored to depress prices. But the evidence of great demand abroad grows clearer and while western receipts are heavy, 7,562,927 bushels for the week, and 28,756,644 for the past four weeks, against 31,150,964 bushels last year, the enormous milling returns are of especial value, showing that foreign orders are preparing a great quantity of flour for export. These returns, not heretofore given elsewhere, will be especially instructive whenever the market turns on the foreign demand. Atlantic exports for four weeks, flour included, have been 8,026,558 bushels, against 6,255,412 last year. Higher prices and actual famine in parts of India have a speculative bearing, but are really less important to the American market than the news of the decreasing supplies from Russia.

The speculation in wool continues and has taken, during the past four weeks, 28,321,100 pounds, against 29,788,550 pounds last year and 26,538,053 pounds in 1892, although less than half the capacity of the mills is employed. It is a gratifying feature, however, that about 12 establishments have started during the week, in confidence that business will be larger hereafter. There is as yet only a slight improvement in the demand for lightweight woolsens.

Iron has been bought largely by speculators, 25,000 tons of Bessemer at Pittsburgh raising the price to $11.90, large quantities of Grey Forge raising the price to $10.40 and 20,000 tons, nearly all of northern iron, at Chicago. Finished products do not change in quoted prices, although quotations are less shaded than of late to secure business and there is strong belief that after a week there will be a marked change. The known orders deferred until after election would by themselves suffice to employ the works for a considerable time.

Failures for the week have been 270 in the United States, against 275 last year, and 40 in Canada, against 53 last year.

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN WHEAT.

After Frequent Fluctuations It Closed a Little Higher.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Wheat closed at an advance of 1 cent, at 73c, after a session marked by the frequency and wideness of its fluctuations. Perhaps the chief reason for the advance was the easier tone of the money market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Wheat scored a 2-cent advance under rather adverse circumstances. The bull side was hampered by lower cables, mixed foreign trade and heavy strong wheat receipts. In the face of this, supported by easier money, prices were carried up to 80 5-16c for December and after a final slight set back, rested at 79 5-16c.

Sues Austin Corbin's Estate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Miss Mathilde Nelson has begun suit for the recovery of $50,000 from the estate of the late Austin Corbin. Miss Nelson, who is a handsome Swede of about 30 years, alleges that Corbin was a frequent visitor at her apartments, and not long before his death he told her that he had invested $50,000 for her, which would be a provision for her in old age.

A Note of Warning.

A number of the remedies commonly used for throat trouble have but little merit. The indiscriminate and careless use of some of them is attended with positive danger.

As a prominent example, Chlorate of Potash probably does a great deal more harm than good. Many people, when suffering from sore throat and like troubles, carry crystals or tablets of Chlorate of Potash in their pockets, and eat them almost like candy. Chlorate of Potash has a decided direct action on the kidneys and its unwise use in frequent and large doses irritates these organs and leads to really serious results, especially so in children.

Some may think this is sounding a false and needless alarm but as a single proof we wish to state that we have before us the November, 1894, copy of the Indiana Medical Journal, wherein are reported two deaths clearly due directly to this habit of using Chlorate of Potash with no regard to its powerful properties.

In the past there may have been some excuse for people trifling with dangerous and powerful drugs in the home treatment of Sore Throat, Sore Mouth, Croup and Quinsy, as there was a lack of a valuable cure for these diseases. A remedy has recently been placed on sale especially for this class of troubles and it is meeting with a well-merited success, as every prudent mother wants such a remedy at hand. Its name is Tonsiline. It never fails. Your dealer has it in 25 and 50 cent bottles.

BRYAN IN WISCONSIN.

Spoke to Big Crowd—Disturbance at J. May 11.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 31.—W. J. Bryan's speeches in Wisconsin were made at Green Bay, De Pere, Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Chester, Juneau, Watertown, Jefferson, Port Atkinson, Janesville, Evansville and Madison. None of them was of more than 30 minutes duration, except the addresses which were made at night at Madison.

All except the Madison speech were made from the rear platform of his special car. This arrangement proved of immense benefit to Mr. Bryan physically, saving him the wear and tear of making his way back and forth through immense crowds of people, eager to press close to him and also in saving time. From almost the beginning of the day's tour the train ran ahead of time, bringing Mr. Bryan into Madison in time to begin his speech in advance of the hour scheduled for his appearance.

There was no semblance of disturbance at any place until Janesville was reached, though it was apparent from the display of yellow badges in many places that his audiences were not entirely in sympathy with him. Still there was respectful attention even on the part of those who wore the colors of the opposition and the silver men were at all places demagogic.

MONEY GETS EASIER.

Bankers Put Out Enough to Accommodate Legitimate Borrowers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The prevailing monetary conditions were again the dominating influence in the stock market. The rank and file of the traders, figuring upon even more stringent rates for call than had ruled the day before, were prepared to see a decline in stocks. The actual movement, however, was aggressively strong, the course of prices being governed by the early intelligence received by powerful speculative interests that a combined effort should be made by the banks to prevent rates rising to a point likely to precipitate disaster.

London prices for American securities came higher, and to this favorable development were soon added the inspiring semi-official news that a number of the leading banks and trust companies had pooled their surplus reserve resources, variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, and would put out as much money as might be needed by legitimate borrowers, though at rates not low enough to encourage hoarding. The extreme fluctuations in call funds ranged from 60 per cent soon after the opening to 6 per cent at the close. In addition, the bank syndicate pooled money for three days' transactions at 100 per cent, equal to 36 per cent.

THE KUCHENG RIOTS.

Final and Complete Reports Received by the State Department.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The state department has just received the final report of the commission appointed to investigate the Kucheng riots in China last spring and to secure the punishment of the perpetrators of the outrage on American missionaries. The report is a very voluminous document fully illustrated by photographs showing the ruins of the destroyed property, the transport of the convicted criminals to the place of execution in bamboo cages; the actual beheading with startling exactness and the display of the heads of the executed Chinese from trees near the place of their crime as a warning to the inhabitants against further assaults upon foreigners.

While the report is of value as a faithful record of the conditions leading up to the missionary outbreaks, it has been anticipated by the department and Secretary Olney, by instructions to United States representatives in China, has laid down the doctrine practiced successfully in the case of the punishment of the Kucheng rioters, that hereafter they are to insist upon holding the local Chinese officials to account and personal responsibility for outrages upon Americans.

PROVE INVADERS BACK.

Palmer and Buckner Had to Retreat In Missouri.

General Buckner's Face Nearly Decorated by a Punch From a Flagpole at Fayette—The Man Who Saved Him Now Wishes He Hadn't.

PARIS, Mo., Oct. 31.—Generals Palmer and Buckner on their arrival here on their trip through Missouri were met at the depot by 500 people. It proved an unwelcome greeting they received and the party was compelled to pull out without accomplishing anything. As the candidates stood on the rear platform with their heads bared, a number of young men pushed up with a big Bryan banner and shoved it under the noses of the generals. Several efforts of General Buckner to speak were interrupted by cries of derision, many in the crowd yelling:

"Look at the McKinley aid society." Stung at this last fling General Buckner pointed at the banner and said:

"Let me tell you who and what constituted the McKinley Aid society. In 1892, on a sound money platform, we elected Grover Cleveland, and the last elections in Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio were disastrous, because you, you shouters with your heresies, drove the party on to failure and contempt. Hold up the banner. There is the emblem of the McKinley Aid society. Look at it."

The train had to pull out to get away from the banner carriers. Many in the crowd expressed regret at the occurrence.

At Fayette Generals Palmer and Buckner received even worse treatment than at Paris and for a time violence was threatened the candidates.

The party was greeted by a howling mob, which seemed bent on causing trouble from the moment the train stopped. No sooner had the two generals emerged upon the car platform than a Bryan banner, bearing the inscription "Fayette Democratic club," was thrust into General Palmer's face by its bearer. A citizen named Williams tried to urge peace and the gold men rallied and rushed the Bryan banner back. This only made the disturbers more ugly. A man tried to punch General Buckner with a flag pole and Williams seized it and the crowd rushed upon him and began beating him.

The men seized Williams and while one garroted him another twisted his beard and a third tried to gouge out his eyes, while others held his legs and arms.

The rioters then tried to get at the generals and strike them with their banners. Scores of men fought bitterly around the car end; women were pushed about and knocked down and many blows were exchanged. An old farmer climbed onto the rear end of the car and shouted: "You are carrying Missouri for McKinley."

He was pulled down by the crowd. After five minutes of fighting, screaming and tooting of horns the train pulled out without the candidates even attempting to make a speech. The Central college boys tried to fight the crowd back. Most of the rioters were young men and belonged to the so-called Fayette Democratic club. They wore high white hats with Bryan's name inscribed thereon and white badges. Most of them seemed to belong to the well-to-do element.

Women stood in the station while this riot was going on and wept.

Mrs. Palmer and Buckner, who are accompanying the candidates, were witnesses to the scenes of disorder.

Aboard the train the party showed the utmost surprise at the treatment accorded: Said General Buckner:

"All through Iowa we were treated with the greatest courtesy. I did not believe we would be shown such disrespect in Missouri."

The men who stood on the rear platform of the car at Fayette were Pope Yeamans of Columbia, who was between General Palmer and General Buckner; Major Lewis of the Hannibal waterworks, T. B. Buckner of Kansas City, Thomas B. Skinner and Arthur Lee of St. Louis, Rufus Anderson of Hannibal and J. W. Richards of Chicago, who was in charge of the train.

At other points the party was greeted by respectful crowds, and the remainder of the trip to Kansas City was made without incident.

PROVOKED BY THE GENERALS

Democrats of Paris and Fayette, Mo., Give Their Side.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—The Times (Dem.) this morning prints specials from Paris and Fayette, Mo., which state that Generals Palmer and Buckner provoked and were in a large measure responsible for the disorder at those places. The dispatch from Paris says:

When Colonel Rufus S. Anderson of Hannibal came out upon the rear platform of the car to introduce Generals Palmer and Buckner his appearance was the signal for a wild Bryan demonstration from a crowd of Democrats, who were bearing a huge Bryan banner. When the shouting had somewhat subsided General Palmer said: "I am glad to meet you all, with a few exceptions."

This thrust provoked a still greater demonstration by the Bryan crowd, which brought their banner closer. Then pointing toward a man carrying the banner, General Palmer said: "I see a sappy fool over there with a Bryan picture. Why does not he come out from behind the picture so we can see who he is. I have observed all through this campaign that the men who say they are for Bryan have to go labelled with their candidates' names so they will not forget which they are for."

This sally provoked a Bryan demonstration that overwhelmed the speaker and Gen. Palmer retired in anger.

General Buckner then appeared and there was another tremendous shout for Bryan. As soon as the southerner could be heard he came back at them with the following retort: "You can holler mighty loud for Bryan, but not one of you can give a sensible reason why you are going to vote for him."

Maybe the man who is screeching Bryan's name out there can count as much as 100 without making a mistake, but I doubt it. I also doubt that he knows the alphabet, and I am certain he can't say it backwards. The gobble of a fool is utterly incomprehensible to me, and therefore I'll pay no further attention to what he may say." At this juncture someone shouted "Hurrah for the McKinley Aid society."

"I am glad some fool has said that," retorted General Buckner, but the crowd surging around the car had by this time become so uproarious that the speaker was obliged to wait a long time before he could proceed, and, though he spoke only a few words afterward, his speech could be heard by only a few of the assembled crowd.

When the train left Paris the Bryan men at that point who were aggrieved at the language used by the candidates telegraphed ahead to Fayette, and these telegrams, according to The Times' Fayette correspondent, stirred up the Fayette Democracy.

BRYAN INTERRUPTED.

A Skirmish Between Democrats and Republicans at Janesville, Wis.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Oct. 31.—Almost a riot marked W. J. Bryan's trip in Wisconsin.

The day was without special incident until Janesville was reached, when there was a disturbance, which at one time looked as if it might become serious. This point was reached about dusk and there had congregated about the station a large assembly of people. There was an almost complete absence of the gold badges. He had scarcely begun speaking, however, when a procession crossed the railroad tracks in the rear of the audience. It soon developed that the procession was composed of a uniformed McKinley club, carrying banners, mottoes and pictures of the Republican candidates and a large American flag.

Immediately after crossing the railroad the procession turned abruptly into the crowd as if intending to come directly to the platform. There was a disturbance of two or three minutes' duration, which caused such confusion as to put a stop to the speech. The mottoes and banners were made the objects of contention, and a scuffle ensued over their possession. Those gradually went down, with the exception of the portrait of McKinley and the American flag, which there was apparently no effort to displace. It was asserted that in the general scuffle there was some resort to physical violence, but it was impossible, from the train, to observe all the details of the encounter. The McKinley procession gradually withdrew and order was very soon restored.

KAISER COMMITTED TO JAIL.

A Belief That He Killed His Wife For Insurance.

NORRISTOWN, Oct. 31.—Charles O. Kaiser, Jr., has been committed to jail without bail. The detectives have a signed statement from him, but refuse to divulge the contents.

The developments strengthen the belief of the authorities that an insurance swindle, with Mrs. Kaiser's life as the forfeit, had been contemplated and that a strange man and woman were conspirators with Kaiser. It has been learned that five policies had been issued to Kaiser and his wife. Eighty-four dollars is the aggregate amount of premiums thus far paid out. On two of them $54 would have become due next month.

Another strange fact has come to light. Two months ago the couple made a joint will, under an arrangement similar to that in the policies, but there was a clause inserted at Kaiser's suggestion, it is said, to the effect that their bodies should be cremated. The police intimate that Kaiser had intended to profit by this arrangement by the use of poison, but that his pecuniary embarrassment coming upon him, he used the medium of lead and concocted the highwayman story.

Fifteen or 20 persons were injured, but no deaths reported.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Oct. 31.—The known dead in the cyclone in Lincoln and Payne counties number seven, with three probably fatally injured.

OPPOSED LABOR.

Mr. Bryan Called the American Workingmen Beggars.

In response to a query regarding the labor record of the Democratic candidate, William J. Bryan, James Campbell, chief factory inspector and an ex-president of the Window Glass Workers of Pennsylvania, writes from Harrisburg that Bryan opposed measures intended to benefit workingmen. Mr. Campbell was a member of the committee that went to Washington in 1893 to urge the ways and means committee to protect labor by putting a tariff on glass. Mr. Campbell was present when Mr. Bryan called workingmen "public beggars" and their employers "robbers."

He says: "Mr. Bryan made that statement. I have made affidavit to the same, and am willing to make affidavit in any court in this country in the presence of Mr. Bryan or anybody else. The fact of a man holding the honorable position of a congressman making such a statement made such an impression on me at that time that it would be impossible to forget the incident."

"On page 2129, Congressional Record, March 10, 1892, you will find in Mr. Bryan's speech the following statement: 'The difference between a protective tariff and a bounty is simply a difference of form. In the one case it is open and visible, and in the other it is secret and hidden. There is a difference between the bounty and the protective tariff that the Bible describes that wasteth at noonday and the pestilence that walketh in darkness. It is the difference between a man that meets you on the highway, knocks you down and takes what you have, and the man who steals in the house at night while you are asleep and robs you of your treasures, and if I had to make a choice between the two I should consider the highway robber more honorable, because he does what he does openly and before the world.'"

"There is no question as to Mr. Bryan's position in relation to a protective tariff. He is in favor of absolute free trade, pure and simple, and is in favor of internal taxes sufficient to run the affairs of the government."

STUDENTS IN CANTON.

College Club Republicans Made
Call on McKinley.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CHILDREN ALSO.

A Club of Colored Men There From Cleveland—Dr. Depew Made Several Speeches—The Major Presented With a Terra Cotta Bust.

CANTON, O., Oct. 31.—The terra cotta bust, with a valuation of $1,000, sent to Major McKinley by citizens of Waterloo, Ia., has been presented to the major by a committee of citizens. Attorney Thomas F. Turner made the presentation speech and Major McKinley accepted the gift in a short address. A letter accompanying the bust will be answered at a future date by Major McKinley.

A party of nearly 100 colored men wearing silk hats and bright badges and carrying the banner of the original McKinley club organized in 1893, came from Cleveland. They were introduced by J. E. Benson. After addressing them briefly, Major McKinley introduced Chauncey M. Depew, who addressed the visitors as well as a very large crowd of Cantonians attracted to the McKinley residence by the distinguished visitor.

No more novel or prettier campaign sight has been presented in this campaign of notable features than the one which greeted Major McKinley when he returned from the depot, which he had accompanied Dr. Depew, who left for Cincinnati.

Most conspicuous in the throng of people that crowded the yards and streets about his home were thousands of public and Catholic parochial school boys of Canton waving American flags and shouting for McKinley. Back of them and all around them were the school girls of Canton, and still further in the rear were the fond parents of these children, men and women of Canton, in countless numbers. The affair which attracted this assemblage was arranged by the schoolboys themselves.

Major McKinley was visibly affected by the demonstration of his old neighbors and their children and it was with much feeling that he delivered an address in response to the greetings. This was the fitting demonstration with which college day ended.

The demonstration of the college students, according to Mr. Henning, one of the men in charge, was participated in by representatives of 45 institutions in the state. They hurrahed and yelled and made the town resound. Besides a response by Major McKinley, the students enjoyed a talk from Chauncey M. Depew and shook hands with both speakers.

In his talk to the college students Major McKinley advised them to follow the advice of Webster:

"Study the constitution of the United States thoroughly; contrast its teachings with the doctrines of the political parties of the day and vote with the one you believe will do the most for your country."

Then he said:
The Republican party can well afford to submit to this test. It never has shrunk from the severest tests of the past and has never suffered thereby. But in the alignment of parties today, and in the vital questions at issue between them, it especially and cheerfully invites comparison and contrast. It has no other aim but the public good and the honor of the American name and confidently submits its contention, not to a class or a section, but to the whole American people.

He advised every young man to have a national spirit and said:

Stand up for America, devote your life to its cause; love your own home and prove as worthy of our cherished free institutions as they are worthy of your allegiance and service. Let not the high standard of national honor raised by the fathers be lowered by their sons. Let learning, liberty and law be exalted and enthroned.

Major McKinley then praised the public and private schools and gave figures showing how much money was expended in the United States for the education of her youth, the immense philanthropy of our people in the founding of schools, public libraries, etc. He said that 13,000,000 or 23 per cent of our population was enrolled in the public schools, a greater percentage than any other nation in the world.

Then he said:
We spend for education per capita more than any other nation of the world. Our per capita is nearly twice that of Great Britain; three times that of France, and ten times that of Italy.

Our census returns show the glorious fact in our civilization that 87 per cent of our total population over ten years of age can read and write. (Loud cheer.)

What a splendid citizenship this will make and how much it means for the future of our country.
These are some of the results of the matchless system of government under which we live and which must in future years be turned over to your keeping. How will you guard them? Sacredly, I am certain you will not begin the exercise of your citizen sovereignty by voting to violate public honor, or by substituting for the glorious old Stars and Stripes any other flag.

Further along he said:

Young gentlemen, the country has need of patriots and statesmen now, and will need them in its future years. I beg you to bear in mind always that the contests which must meet are largely intellectual and moral, not material, and that no ally, no sure, faithful ally, and no ally, I am certain you will not begin the exercise of your citizen sovereignty by voting to violate public honor, or by substituting for the glorious old Stars and Stripes any other flag.

These are some of the results of the matchless system of government under which we live and which must in future years be turned over to your keeping. How will you guard them? Sacredly, I am certain you will not begin the exercise of your citizen sovereignty by voting to violate public honor, or by substituting for the glorious old Stars and Stripes any other flag.

estate. Then they have turned to professional men and college men, merchants and manufacturers and railroad presidents (turning to Dr. Chauncey M. Depew of New York amid loud laughter), and said: "You will not follow us, so, of course, you must stay together."

There would be something comical about all this travesty of common sense, if it were not for the fact, the serious fact, that the carrying of the bitterest feelings of each community, the arraying of labor against capital, of the poor or less fortunate against the rich or more fortunate, and the creation, for the first time in our history, of harmful and destructive social divisions. If the teachings of these men were followed to their logical conclusions they would threaten the very foundations of our government. But they are all wrong fundamentally, and wrong; for there never was a time (and never will be, or can be a time), when the interests of labor and capital were not identical and mutually beneficial.

Young men of the college, I adjure you, denounce these things wherever you encounter them, speak against them and vote against them, teach your children to abhor them, for they are opposed to American national institutions. This glorious republic is full of the splendid examples of the poor young man who has made by force his merit known; and lived to clutch the golden keys, that moulds a mighty state's decrees, and shapes the whispers of the throne.

It gave us Andrew Jackson, a young hero of the revolution, and Abraham Lincoln, the martyr to liberty. Their names will be repeated with honor so long as the history of the United States is read. One, the son of a poor widow; the other, born in poverty and obscurity, and both without the advantages of early education. Each young man in the hearing of my voice has as good a chance in life today under our free institutions—aye, a better chance than either of those great men had at his age; and yet there are men so reckless and wanton as to say that the children of the poor have no opportunity to rise. Out upon such a gospel. It is opposed to every national instinct; it is utterly unworthy of any self-respecting American citizen.

Teach rather the doctrine of Jefferson: "The cement of the Union is in the heart and blood of every American." It belongs to us all; it is ours to keep, for all time and to enjoy, and it gives every man, woman and child under the flag an equal opportunity in the battle of life. Young men, I congratulate you upon the splendid opportunities secured by you by long American civilization and by virtue of our free institutions, and I assure you that with honesty and industry, pure lives and noble aspirations, you will make names for yourselves and add glory to the republic. Guard your own lives from impure thoughts, or unworthy ambitions and you will be better equipped for the sacred trusts which, in a few years, will be imposed upon you.

James Denies the Statement.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Chairman James of the Democratic national committee, when shown the London dispatch in which he is quoted as having admitted the defeat of Bryan in Illinois, said: "There is no truth in that statement. I never said that Bryan would not carry Illinois. What I did say was that Bryan could win without carrying that state. We have not given up hope of carrying Illinois. On the contrary, we fully expect to carry it."

THE CASTLES' SCRAPE COSTLY.

Eminent Counsel Hired—Mrs. Castle's Plea to Be Insanity.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The case of Walter M. Castle, the San Francisco merchant and his wife on a charge of shoplifting, preferred by various West End dealers, is to be docketed for Monday next, but only the solicitors for the case will appear at that time, and there will without doubt be a postponement. It is expected that the case will be definitely fixed for Thursday, when the trial is likely to proceed without interruption. The cases of the husband and wife will be proceeded with separately.

Of the distinguished counsel who are to take part in the trial, the husband's case will be looked after by Sir Frank Lockwood, formerly solicitor general in

Lord Rosebery's cabinet and who has been recently returned from a trip to the United States in company with the lord chief justice, Baron Russell, of Killowen, and C. F. Gill, who conducted the prosecution against Oscar Wilde on behalf of the treasury. Mrs. Castle's case will be defended by Sir Edward Clarke, who was solicitor general in Lord Salisbury's former ministry, and Charles Matthews.

It is decided that the defense in Mrs. Castle's case shall be based on medical testimony. In addition to the explicit affidavit of a San Francisco doctor, who was familiar with Mrs. Castle's case, testimony will be offered of Dr. George Henry Savage, lecturer on mental diseases at Guy's hospital and author of a manual on insanity and Dr. Gregg and Dr. L. M. Gabriel, who are among the most eminent in London on woman's diseases; also Dr. Scott, attending physician at Holloway jail.

It is estimated that this trial will cost Mr. Castle £5,000 ($25,000). "Sir Edward Clarke and others of counsel probably require a retainer of $2,500 daily with refreshers of $500 to $1,000, in addition to which the doctors' and solicitors' fees are to be considered.

NO LACK OF SILVER.

Volume of Money Has Not Eaten the Price of Wheat.

One of the most frequently repeated assertions of the friends of silver is that the lack of silver money has caused the fall in the price of wheat and other farm products, and that the addition of more silver to our currency would bring the price of wheat up to $1 per bushel, or more. They indignantly deny that this would be because of the depreciation of silver as a standard of value, but say that the mere addition of more money to the circulating medium of the country would cause prices to advance.

Here is a table which shows the amount of silver money in the country in each year since 1871, and the average price of wheat in each year. It will be seen that the amount of silver money in the United States in 1895 was twelve times as much as in 1871, and that the price of wheat when we had the most silver money was just two-fifths what it was when silver was one-twelfth of the amount which we have today. Does this look as though "more silver money in the country" would make prices higher?

FEAR OF BRYAN'S ELECTION.

Significant Letters From Customers of a Columbus Firm.

A Columbus manufacturing firm sends to The Dispatch of that city a communication, in which the writer says: "We beg to call your attention to the attached letters, which are a fair specimen of many communications that we are at present receiving from our best trade, both north and south. Such letters as these coming directly from our trade bring the matter directly before us in a forcible manner, and from the manufacturers' standpoint they make one of the strongest pleas that could be made for a sound financial policy and safe government."

The letters referred to in the above communication are as follows:

"Albany, N. Y., Oct. 19, 1896.
Company, Columbus, O.

"Gentlemen: Replying to your favor of the 16th, we can not tell just when we will be in the market for a carload of buggies, but not until after the election. If Mr. Bryan is elected we not only do not want another carload of buggies, but we want to close out our business and move to some decent country. If Mr. McKinley is elected we are liable to be in the market for some good buggies, and when we decide just what we will do we will not forget you, but bring up the matter again. Yours truly, D. M. S. & CO."

"Albany, Ga., Oct. 20, 1896.

While the family of John Thompson, of Waterloo street, were quarantined, a horse belonging to Thompson escaped from the stable and strayed away. As its owner was not permitted to leave his dwelling and search for the animal, it was not found. An endeavor is being made to locate the missing horse.

Perhaps the greatest odds of the campaign appeared in a bet made in the city a day or two ago. A Republican, who has every reason to believe Major McKinley will be elected, wagered $30 against five cents that Bryan would not be the next president. The bet was made in good faith, and the winner will get his money.

James Pollock called at city hall this morning and wanted to know if a man, who is preparing to build a stable adjacent to his home, could be restrained from putting up the building. He says general complaint is made by the neighbors, who object to having a stable near their dwellings. The mayor promised to attend to the matter.

C. H. Kelly, the well known Pittsburgh traveler who has many friends in this city, has written Proprietor Pike to keep a trunk he has at the Thompson House until next Wednesday. "If Major McKinley is elected I expect to do some business, but I have no use for those samples now; business is demoralized. Should Bryan win (God spare us the humiliation,) I don't know as I shall need the trunk, and in that event will advise you later."

STUDENTS IN CANTON.

College Club Republicans Made Call on McKinley.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CHILDREN ALSO.

A Club of Colored Men There From Cleveland—Dr. Depew Made Several Speeches—The Major Presented With a Terra Cotta Bust.

CANTON, O., Oct. 31.—The terra cotta bust, with a valuation of $1,000 sent to Major McKinley by citizens of Waterloo, Ia., has been presented to the major by a committee of citizens. Attorney Thomas F. Turner made the presentation speech and Major McKinley accepted the gift in a short address. A letter accompanying the bust will be answered at a future date by Major McKinley.

A party of nearly 100 colored men wearing silk hats and bright badges and carrying the banner of the original McKinley club organized in 1893, came from Cleveland. They were introduced by J. E. Benson. After addressing them briefly, Major McKinley introduced Channey M. Depew, who addressed the visitors as well as a very large crowd of Cantonians attracted to the McKinley residence by the distinguished visitor.

No more novel or prettier campaign sight has been presented in this campaign of notable features than the one which greeted Major McKinley when he returned from the depot, which he accompanied Dr. Depew, who left for Cincinnati.

Most conspicuous in the throng of people that crowded the yards and streets about his home were thousands of public and Catholic parochial school boys of Canton waving American flags and shouting for McKinley. Back of them and all around them were the school girls of Canton, and still further in the rear were the fond parents of these children, men and women of Canton, in countless numbers. The affair which attracted this assemblage was arranged by the schoolboys themselves.

Major McKinley was visibly affected by the demonstration of his old neighbors and their children and it was with much feeling that he delivered an address in response to the greetings. This was the fitting demonstration with which college day ended.

The demonstration of the college students, according to Mr. Henning, one of the men in charge, was participated in by representatives of 45 institutions of learning. They hurried and yelled and made the town resound. Besides a response by Major McKinley, the students enjoyed a talk from Channey M. Depew and shook hands with both speakers.

In his talk to the college students Major McKinley advised them to follow the advice of Webster:

"Study the constitution of the United States thoroughly; contrast its teachings with the doctrines of the political parties of the day and vote with the one you think will do the most for your country."

Then he said:

The Republican party can well afford to stand on that test; it never has shrank from the severest tests of the past and has never suffered thereby. But in the alignment of parties today, and in the vital questions at issue between them, it especially and cheerfully invites comparison and contrast. It has no aim but the public good and the honor of the American name and confidently submits its contention, not to a class or a section, but to the whole American people.

He advised every young man to have a national spirit and said:

Stand up for America, devote your life to its cause; love your own homes and give as worthy of our citizenship as institutions as they are worthy of your assistance and service. Let not the high standard of national honor raised by the fathers be lowered by their sons. Let learning, liberty and law be exalted and enthroned.

Major McKinley then praised the college and public schools and gave figures showing how much money was expended in the United States for the education of her youth, the immense philanthropy of our people in the founding of schools, public libraries, etc. He said that 13,000,000 or 23 per cent of our population was enrolled in the public schools, a greater percentage than any other nation in the world.

Then he said:

We spend for education per capita more than any other nation of the world. Our per capita is nearly twice that of Great Britain, three times that of France, and ten times that of Italy.

Our census returns show the glorious fact in our civilization that 87 per cent of our total population over ten years of age can read and write. [Loud cheers.]

What a splendid citizenship this will make and how much it means for the future of our country.

These are some of the results of the matchless system of government under which we live and which must in future years be turned over to our future. How will you guard them? Will you guard them faithfully and honorably? I am sure you will not begin the exercise of your citizenship sovereignty by voting to violate public law, or by substituting for the glorious old Stars and Stripes any other flag.

Further along he said:

Young gentlemen, the country has need of patriots and statesmen now, and will need them in its future years. I beg you to bear in mind always that the contests which you must meet are largely intellectual and moral, not material, and that no matter how limited your resources financially, you have just as good a chance to succeed as anybody else if you apply your American manhood. Do your duty bravely, cheerfully and hopefully, and do it at all hazards, and, whatever your embarking, you are bound to win. The future of this country is so blessed as support and loyalty; give it your hearty best thoughts, acts and devotion. There never was a country that exacts so little from its citizens, and there never was a country that was entitled to so much and which gave its citizens so much as ours.

In the pending campaign some men are actually advocating the splitting of nations or classes, as they are called. They have said to the workmen: "You go off into one crowd," and they have said to the farmers, gardeners, and other agriculturists: "You go off into another crowd." But the woolgrowers have left out altogether; as the woolgrowers fully appreciate.

estate. Then they have turned to professional men and college men, merchants and manufacturers and railroad presidents (turning to Dr. Channey M. Depew of New York, and loud laughter), and said: "You will not follow us, so, of course, you must stay together."

There would be something comical about all this travesty of common sense, if it were not for the fact that the serious fact of each community, the arraying of labor against capital, of the poor or less fortunate against the rich or more fortunate, and the creation, for the first time in our history, of harmful and destructive social divisions. If the teachings of these men were followed to their logical conclusions they would threaten the very foundations of the government. But they are all wrong, and, cruelly, cruelly wrong; for there never was a time (and never will be, or can be a time), when the interests of labor and capital were not identical and mutually beneficial.

Young men of the college, I adjure you, denounce these things wherever you can; counter them, speak against them and vote against them, teach your children to labor them, for they are opposed to American national institutions. This glorious republic is full of the splendid examples of the poor young man who has made his force his merit known; and lived to clutch the golden keys, that moulds a mighty state's decrees, and shapes the whispers of the throne.

It gave us Andrew Jackson, a young hero of the revolution, and Abraham Lincoln, the martyr to liberty. Their names will be repeated with honor so long as the history of the United States is read. One, the son of a poor widow; the other, born in poverty and obscurity, and both without the advantages of early education. Each young man in the hearing of my voice has as good a chance in life today under our free institutions—aye, a better chance than either of those great men had at his age; and yet there are men so reckless and wanton as to say that the children of the poor have no opportunity to rise. Out upon such a gospel! It is opposed to every national instinct; it is utterly unworthy of any self-respecting American citizen.

Teach rather the doctrine of Jefferson: "The cement of the Union is in the heart and blood of every American." It belongs to us all; it is ours to keep, for all time and to enjoy, and it gives every man, woman and child under the flag an equal opportunity in the battle of life. Young men, I congratulate you upon the splendid opportunities secured by our American civilization and by virtue of our free institutions, and I assure you that with honesty and industry, pure lives and noble aspirations, you will make names for yourselves and add glory to the republic. Guard your own lives from impure thoughts, or unworthy ambitions and you will be better equipped for the sacred trusts which, in a few years, will be imposed upon you.

Jones Denies the Statement.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee, when shown the London dispatch in which he is quoted as having admitted the defeat of Bryan in Illinois, said: "There is no truth in that statement. I never said that Bryan would not carry Illinois. What I did say was that Bryan could win without carrying that state. We have not given up hope of carrying Illinois. On the contrary, we fully expect to carry it."

NO LACK OF SILVER.

Volume of Money Has Not Ruled the Price of Wheat.

One of the most frequently repeated assertions of the friends of silver is that the lack of silver money has caused the fall in the price of wheat and other farm products, and that the addition of more silver to our currency would bring the price of wheat up to $1 per bushel, or more. They indignantly deny that this would be because of the depreciation of silver as a standard of value, but say that the mere addition of more money to the circulating medium of the country would cause prices to advance.

Here is a table which shows the amount of silver money in the country in each year since 1871, and the average price of wheat in each year. It will be seen that the amount of silver money in the United States in 1895 was twelve times as much as in 1871, and that the price of wheat when we had the most silver money was just two-fifths what it was when silver was one-twelfth of the amount which we have today. Does this look as though "more silver money in the country" would make prices higher?

FEAR OF BRYAN'S ELECTION.

Significant Letters From Customers of a Columbus Firm.

A Columbus manufacturing firm sends to The Dispatch of that city a communication, in which the writer says: "We beg to call your attention to the attached letters, which are a fair specimen of many communications that we are at present receiving from our best trade, both north and south. Such letters as these coming directly from our trade bring the matter directly before us in very forcible manner, and from the manufacturers' standpoint they make one of the strongest pleas that could be made for a sound financial policy and safe government."

The letters referred to in the above communication are as follows:

"Albany, N. Y., Oct. 19, 1896.
"Company, Columbus, O.:
"Gentlemen: Replying to your favor of the 16th, we can not tell just when we will be in the market for a carload of buggies, but not until after the election. If Mr. Bryan is elected we not only do not want another carload of buggies, but we want to close out our business and move to some decent country. If Mr. McKinley is elected we are liable to be in the market for some good buggies, and when we decide just what we will do we will not forget you, but bring up the matter again.
"Yours truly, D. M. S. & CO."
"Albany, Ga., Oct. 20, 1896.

A prominent Democrat sat in a front seat at the meeting last night, and spent the greater part of the time reading a newspaper, much to the disgust of his friends, who believed he should listen to the nonsense from the platform.

Bill Farmer was among Mayor Gilbert's visitors this morning. Someone has been stealing his dogs, and Bill came to tell the mayor he had purchased a "shootin' iron," and proposed to use it if the boys continue their depredations.

Residents of Irondale who were in the city today said their town was the liveliest in this part of the state. The mill is working with a full force, and it is whispered around that the plant will be enlarged next year if McKinley is elected.

A large number of casks and hogsheds of ware are lying at the wharf to be shipped on the packets Lorena and Virginia this evening to southern ports. The regular Sunday boats will be up tomorrow. The river fell a few inches during the night.

A farmer came to town today with a load of apples, and having disposed of the lot, except one barrel, decided not to take it home with him. Calling a number of boys to the wagon he bade them help themselves, and in a short time the apples had entirely disappeared.

The grading and lowering of the Sixth street sidewalks has been completed, and today the residents are placing their fences on a level with the street. General satisfaction is expressed at the improvement. Contractor Ryan is preparing to commence paving the gutters of Lisbon street.

"I wonder if the importing house which employs Badger pays him for making speeches such as he made last night?" asked a potter today. "If he gets any kind of a salary they are losing money, for that silly fellow made more Republican votes than any speaker we have heard this year."

While the family of John Thompson, of Waterloo street, were quarantined, a horse belonging to Thompson escaped from the stable and strayed away. As its owner was not permitted to leave his dwelling and search for the animal, it was not found. An endeavor is being made to locate the missing horse.

Perhaps the greatest odds of the campaign appeared in a bet made in the city a day or two ago. A Republican, who has every reason to believe Major McKinley will be elected, wagered $30 against five cents that Bryan would not be the next president. The bet was made in good faith, and the winner will get his money.

James Pollock called at city hall this morning and wanted to know if a man, who is preparing to build a stable adjacent to his home, could be restrained from putting up the building. He says general complaint is made by the neighbors, who object to having a stable near their dwellings. The mayor promised to attend to the matter.

C. H. Kelly, the well known Pittsburgh traveler who has many friends in this city, has written Proprietor Poke to keep a trunk he has at the Thompson House until next Wednesday. "If Major McKinley is elected I expect to do some business, but I have no use for those samples now; business is demoralized. Should Bryan win, (God spare us the humiliation,) I don't know as I shall need the trunk, and in that event will advise you later."

Decorated George Heckathorn
When He Was Sentenced.

THE JUDGE GAVE HIM FOUR YEARS

Edward Croxall Was Sent to the Mansfield Reformatory—Jack Fastbinder Will Stay Two Years in the Penitentiary. Sentence Day in Common Pleas.

LISBON, Oct. 31.—[Special].—This was sentence day in common pleas court, and Judge Smith disposed of George Heckathorn and Edward Croxall, the East Liverpool boys who have been trending the stony path of crime.

Heckathorn appeared in court with a yellow ribbon on his coat and a smile on his face, and when Judge Smith called him for sentence he did not look at all anxious. The judge expressed the belief that he was the leader of the gang, and had been leading boys of tender age in the wrong way. He gave him some good advice, overruled the motion for a new trial, and sentenced him to four years at hard labor in the penitentiary. The motion for another trial for Croxall was also turned down, and the boy sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory. Jack Fastbinder got two years in the penitentiary, and would likely have been given a longer term if it was not for his age, he being in his seventy-second year. William Menegy, the Knox township boy charged with assault, got 30 days in the workhouse.

BE COURTEOUS.

It Is Positive Evidence of a Refined Nature.

Courtesy costs but very little, and is always a good investment. There are some creatures (not men, but in man's semblance) in East Liverpool who will find that this truism is a bitter reality in their special cases. These creatures imagine that the clothing and appearance constitute the man, and look upon every farmer as a "hayseed" and extremely verdant. The one fellow we especially refer to claims to be a business man, being part solicitor, part collector and the remainder detective, sneaking into the good graces of far better men than himself, and then playing the disgusting and unenviable part of informer. This fellow has openly insulted a number of farmers who by accident dropped into his office and made inquiries as to certain parties they wished to see—farmers who are men of position and trust; farmers who did gallant duty in the ranks with the boys in blue, during the great rebellion; farmers who have more genuine manhood in their makeup than is condensed in the persons of a thousand such creatures as the fellow we refer to. Some day the poltroon will make a sad mistake, and one of these veterans will use his miserable carcass as a mop, and wipe up his office floor with it. Let him have a care.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—Why don't the manufacturing potters of the city put the name of our town on every package of ware sent out? It could be the best advertisement the place could possibly get, and would spread the impression that we make ware here. There was a time when East Liverpool did not make good ware; but that has gone by long ago. No one is ashamed of the pottery made here now, and the ware, as well as our town, would soon be known much better than it is at present if every package was marked. CITIZEN.

A REPORT OF INTEREST

To Our Citizens at This Particular Time,

WHEN DIPHTHERIA IS PREVALENT

In This Vicinity—Mr. Southworth Makes His Annual Report to the State Board of Charities—Not One Death Occurred at the Fairmount Children's Home, Although Diphtheria Raged For a Time.

Superintendent M. M. Southworth, of the Fairmount Children's home, in making his annual report, says that while diphtheria has been quite prevalent among the children at the home during the past year, not a single death occurred. This is really a remarkable record, and goes to show that the 200 children at the home are in good and careful hands. It will be of interest to the readers to learn their method of treating diphtheria and the lesser throat diseases, such as sore throat and tonsillitis. The following letter explains itself, and coming from so competent a source, needs no comment:

FAIRMOUNT CHILDREN'S HOME, ALLIANCE, O., March 15, 1895.

THE TONSILINE CO.:—In the past years we have had a great deal of experience at the home with throat diseases, varying from sore throat to diphtheria. During the past three months we have given your remedy a thorough test. I am glad to be able to say that Tonsiline has proven itself to be a very valuable remedy in our hands in treating throat diseases of different kinds. We have used several bottles, and in every case it has effected a speedy cure. Some four weeks since, one of the children, 3 years old, was taken sick with every indication of diphtheria. We depended on Tonsiline, and our trust was not misplaced, as a marked improvement was soon noticed, and the child made a complete recovery, with none of the attendant ills so often following diphtheria. My wife joins me in commending Tonsiline as the most valuable throat remedy we have ever used.

M. M. SOUTHWORTH, Sup't.

It might be added that in recent years no remedy has been put on the market which has met with such public favor as Tonsiline. The general was followed by the drummer. He talked something about this being the winter of their discontent, and repeatedly referred to somebody's immaculate ballot. The place to put the cross was under the rooster, and his friend Henry George was quoted as though Henry wasn't in this campaign at so much a column. At this point the people began to leave, and the drummer attempted to hold them by promises of making them laugh if they would stay. His lips trembled with poetic motion, he said, when he spoke Bryan's name, and he would rather have his tongue cut out than tell an untruth. Then he expressed the belief that Bryan would carry every state from Pittsburg to the Pacific. He told the crowd a few stories in French and German, said he was more intelligent than the workmen listening to him and was much surprised that any of them would hesitate to vote for silver when he, with his superior intelligence, stood before them, a silver advocate. By this time the crowd had dwindled so that the drummer finally realized they had wearied of his nonsense, and quit.

When He Was Sentenced.

THE JUDGE GAVE HIM FOUR YEARS

Edward Croxall Was Sent to the Mansfield Reformatory—Jack Fastbinder Will Stay Two Years in the Penitentiary. Sentence Day in Common Pleas.

Lisbon, Oct. 31.—[Special.]—This was sentence day in common pleas court, and Judge Smith disposed of George Heckathorn and Edward Croxall, the East Liverpool boys who have been trending the stony path of crime.

Heckathorn appeared in court with a yellow ribbon on his coat and a smile on his face, and when Judge Smith called him for sentence he did not look at all anxious. The judge expressed the belief that he was the leader of the gang, and had been leading boys of tender age in the wrong way. He gave him some good advice, overruled the motion for a new trial, and sentenced him to four years at hard labor in the penitentiary. The motion for another trial for Croxall was also turned down, and the boy sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory. Jack Fastbinder got two years in the penitentiary, and would likely have been given a longer term if it was not for his age, he being in his twenty-second year. William Menegy, the Knox township boy charged with assault, got 30 days in the workhouse.

BE COURTEOUS.

It Is Positive Evidence of a Refined Nature.

Courtesy costs but very little, and is always a good investment. There are some creatures (not men, but in man's semblance) in East Liverpool who will find that this truism is a bitter reality in their special cases. These creatures imagine that the clothing and appearance constitute the man, and look upon every farmer as a "hayseed" and extremely verdant. The one fellow we especially refer to claims to be a business man, being part solicitor, part collector and the remainder detective, sneaking into the good graces of far better men than himself, and then playing the disgusting and unenviable part of informer. This fellow has openly insulted a number of farmers who by accident dropped into his office and made inquiries as to certain parties they wished to see—farmers who are men of position and trust; farmers who did gallant duty in the ranks with the boys in blue, during the great rebellion; farmers who have more genuine manhood in their makeup than is condensed in the persons of a thousand such creatures as the fellow we refer to. Some day the poltroon will make a sad mistake, and one of these veterans will use his miserable carcass as a mop, and wipe up his office floor with it. Let him have a care.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW.—Why don't the manufacturing potters of the city put the name of our town on every package of ware sent out? A REPORT OF INTEREST

To Our Citizens at This Particular Time,

WHEN DIPHTHERIA IS PREVALENT

In This Vicinity—Mr. Southworth Makes His Annual Report to the State Board of Charities—Not One Death Occurred at the Fairmount Children's Home, Although Diphtheria Raged For a Time.

Superintendent M. M. Southworth, of the Fairmount Children's home, in making his annual report, says that while diphtheria has been quite prevalent among the children at the home during the past year, not a single death occurred. This is really a remarkable record, and goes to show that the 200 children at the home are in good and careful hands. It will be of interest to the readers to learn their method of treating diphtheria and the lesser throat diseases, such as sore throat and tonsillitis. The following letter explains itself, and coming from so competent a source, needs no comment:

FAIRMOUNT CHILDREN'S HOME, ALLIANCE, O., March 15, 1895.

THE TONSYLINE CO.:—In the past years we have had a great deal of experience at the home with throat diseases, varying from sore throat to diphtheria. During the past three months we have given our remedy a thorough test. I am glad to be able to say that Tonsiline has proven itself to be a very valuable remedy in our hands in treating throat diseases of different kinds. We have used several bottles, and in every case it has effected a speedy cure. Some four weeks since, one of the children, 3 years old, was taken sick with every indication of diphtheria. We depended on Tonsiline, and our trust was not misplaced, as a marked improvement was soon noticed, and the child made a complete recovery, with none of the attendant ills so often following diphtheria. My wife joins me in commending Tonsiline as the most valuable throat remedy we have ever used.

M. M. SOUTHWORTH, Sup't.

It might be added that in recent years no remedy has been put on the market which has met with such public favor as Tonsiline. There had been a lack of a popular cure for sore throat, sore mouth and quinsy, which has happily been supplied by Tonsiline. A happy man is a healthy man, and a healthy man is generally happy. You never saw a happy man in your life who had indigestion. If a man gets up in the morning with a foul taste and festered breath; if he feels listless and sluggish; if he is dizzy and blind the minute he steps out of bed; if his breakfast doesn't taste good; if he feels utterly incapable of work, it is a pretty sure sign that his digestion is out of order, that his principal trouble is constipation. If he lets this condition run on, there is no telling where it will stop. Nine-tenths of all human sickness comes from constipation. The first thing that every doctor asks when he is called to see a patient is whether the bowels are in good order. It is nonsense to call a doctor for such a simple thing. It is nonsense to let such a simple thing grow into such a serious thing, as it always does if neglected. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They not only afford immediate and pleasant relief from all the distressing symptoms, but they cure permanently and positively. There are 10,000 medicines that can be taken, to give temporary relief. The "Pleasant Pellets" are the only things that really cure.

There are plenty of druggists who will try to sell you something else. You know just as well as we do that an honest druggist wouldn't do such a thing. If you ask an honest druggist would give you what you ask for. You know that when a druggist insists on giving you something else, there must be a reason for it. We know that that reason is he makes a bigger profit on the other thing. Any druggist in America will supply the "Pellets" if you insist on it.

A STRAY BIT OF NEWS

Picked Up on Church Alley by Our Representative.

When our readers are told that Mr. C. McLean, of 187 Church Alley, has lived amongst us for eleven years, that he conducted three years ago a brick manufacturing, and retired from it to enter the East Liverpool Pottery Co.'s employ, ample proof can be produced that all this is so, for Mr. McLean is in the city to verify or contradict it. It is the same with the assertions contained in his statement that follows. You have only to interview the gentleman, when a personal corroboration will be given to what here for the first time is made public. No doubt or suspicion can be thrown on it. Such evidence must be convincing, conclusive, indisputable. Read it, Mr. McLean says: "I used to be troubled a great deal with muscular rheumatism, but the last three years the whole trouble seems to have settled in my back and kidneys, and caused much pain and suffering, the last year being the worst. I had a steady aching pain in my kidneys; extreme weakness in the muscles of the back; could not rest at night except lying flat on
